WE DESIGN AND BUILD MARINAS THAT MEET UNIQUE REQUIREMENTS

Harborage Marina, St. Petersburg, FL

WWW.MARINETEK.NET

Seabin – a 2017 DAME design award winner

The first commercial version of the V5 Seabin – an innovative marina-based collector of floating rubbish – was displayed by Poralu Marine in the Marina & Yard Pavilion at Metstrade in November 2017. The product secured a much coveted DAME design award in the Marina Equipment category. Poralu Marine has a worldwide agreement to manufacture, sell and distribute the product.

Seabin, not surprisingly, is a bin that sits in the sea. It is fixed to a floating pontoon, submerged, and connected to a low power electric pump which creates a continuous current to attract floating waste to the collector. The waste is recovered in a bag, which is emptied and replaced by maintenance personnel as required. Each bag has a maximum sensible lifting load of 20kg (44lb).

As can be seen in any Seabin video, the product is a magnet for all kinds of floating debris. What is less obvious is that, in the midst of the daily rubbish, Seabin captures micro plastics; tiny 2mm fragments of pollutants that are likely to escape most other systems.

Designed for sheltered waters in marinas, clubs and ports, the product should be strategically positioned in specific debris problem areas where wind and currents will push the flow of rubbish towards the bin. It should be checked twice a day. A percentage of oil can also be captured with simple oil absorption technology if the catch bag is customised for this purpose. As the technology develops, the amount of oil each Seabin can capture will increase.

Lift for inland market

The Tornado, the first freestanding hydraulic boat lift from Golden Boat Lifts, marks the company's entry into the inland market. The Tornado has standard capacities up to 18,000lbs (8,165kg) – larger upon request – and is completely adjustable to accommodate deep-V and stepped hulls, deck boats, pontoon boats and PWC. It features Golden's new Multi Bunk system - a patent-pending design that provides cushioned support irrespective of the vessel's hull configuration and protects paint and gelcoat – and Air Bellows, a sleeve-like enclosure that protects the lift's underwater elements.

Boat launch app

Marina managers and customers can now manage and control a range of marina tasks using SpeedyDock, a boat launch scheduling app with bundled asset tracking and dock management capabilities. Boat launches can be scheduled and updates and requests sent straight to the field; drystack customers can request racking; a drystack can be modelled using flexible grids to easily assign boats to racks; and maps of slip layouts can quickly be built using satellite and aerial dock imagery.

Smart pedestals for smart marinas

Plus Marine boosted its references for dockside pedestal contracts with prestigious names, including Glossy Bay Marina in St Vincent and the Grenadines, Marina di Valletta in Malta and Capo d'Orlando Marina in Sicily. Glossy Bay, a new megayacht facility, purchased XXL pedestals for its 125 berths and the Maltese and Sicilian marinas invested in logo-enhanced stainless steel electricity and water pedestals, fire-fighting pedestals, remote control and new Smart Cloud software. Plus also designed custom pedestals with Smart Cloud remote metering for the upmarket Marasi Bay project in Dubai.

Floating solar-power platform brings the land to the sea

Blue Isles floating solar-powered platforms, invented and manufactured by PowerDocks, offer a range of marine applications and can be installed anywhere in the world.

The concept is simple: solar panels mounted to the platform continually harness the sun's energy and store it in batteries, providing constant electricity for any boats mooring up. They can be used by marine electric propulsion vehicles, autonomous underwater vehicles (AUVs) and surface autonomous vehicles (SAVs); in aquaculture farming; and as a tool for commercial users, defence or oceanography.

For the marina industry, these 'micro-grids' bring shore-based power out into the sea. They offer the ideal solution for smaller marinas looking to increase capacity but without the fixed pontoon space to do so. The platforms are green machines, helping to improve water quality and environmental conditions by offering an alternative to fossil fuel-based equipment. Each year, the company says, one small solar powered mooring platform saves 2+ megawatt hours, avoids 42,781 tonnes of carbon dioxide emissions, saves US$1.1 million in energy savings compared to existing or alternative technology, provides 100% energy efficiency improvement over existing fossil-fuel based technologies and cuts over one million air particles, resulting in improved air quality.

Once installed, they require little, if any, maintenance and can be left to do their job indefinitely. They even have on-deck bird scarers, which help to keep the panels clean.

Fully customisable in both material and size, the platforms are offered in three stock sizes providing two, four or six kilowatt-hours of resilient power. The largest stock size, a custom design featuring 12 kilowatt-hours of power in a 5m x 6m (16ft x 20ft) platform, allows up to three boats to moor alongside and boaters can use the platform as a communal entertainment area, taking advantage of both power and Wi-Fi.

MT boosts forklift options

Marine Travelift (MT) expanded its innovative Hydro_M Drive marine forklift line last year. Increased capacities, shorter wheelbase options and a redesign of the easy-access engine compartment give customers the ability to grow business by lowering maintenance costs and increasing precision and efficiency.

The hydrostatic drive system was first introduced by the company in the mid 1990s and has since been continuously improved. The complete Hydro_M Drive product line features capacities up to 52,000lbs (23,587kg) and beyond, and carries the same tested technologies. These additional capacities, along with shorter wheel base options, ensure the right fit for any size marina.

Quantum success

Rolec achieved continued success with Quantum, the newest dockside pedestal (for 2016/17) in its portfolio. Key contracts included delivery of 90 white aluminium Quantum to Amwaj Marina in Bahrain, bespoke coloured pedestals for Port Adriano's Old Port in Mallorca and anodised aluminium models for Kenese Marina Port in Balatonkenese, Hungary. The Amwaj pedestals are supported by Rolec's BerthMaster fully networked management system, which attracted multiple orders in 2017.

One pedestal, international outlets

M-Tech Marine Technologies replaced marina service pedestals at Riviera's Gold Coast headquarters in Queensland, Australia.

The company manufactured bespoke XL service units with a range of functions, including variable Australian and US electrical outlets, water supply and compressed air. M-Tech also completed another phase for Sydney Superyacht Marina, again supplying its award-winning XL units, and enjoyed continued success with its Platinum pedestal range, with deliveries to marinas including d'Albora Marinas Akuna Bay.

Bringing marinas into the Smart world

BerthMaster Online, the marina management system launched by Rolec in 2016, has been well received at a global level but commercial success is only part of the story. Connecting the marina industry to the Smart world has only just begun and Rolec is continuing to hone the product.

"BerthMaster Online is a cloud-based multi-layered Smart platform that enables us, in association with our global strategic partners Vodafone and WorldPay, to continually evolve and develop new and exciting apps and features that can be remotely deployed to the benefit of both the berth holder and marina operator," says Rolec operations director Holly Brown.

"Some of the latest additions include 'loss of power' email alerts, analytic reporting of utility services, berth holder focused push marketing facilities and the ability to manage berth holder accounts across multiple marinas," she adds.

Utilising the latest in mobile phone technology, Berthmaster Online brings everyone associated with the marina – staff, customers, franchised retailers and social outlets – under one cloud-based Smart system that, as it develops, is providing more and more services and solutions. Berth holders have control of marina services and can pay for these using their phone or any other web enabled device; the marina operator can control and manage all electricity supplies, water, lighting, sanitation and security systems and derive a wealth of analytical information on all services. The push marketing feature enables the marina to send e-shots and emails directly to customers to market boats for sale, offer early settlement discounts, promote restaurant deals and special events etc.

"The list of services can go on and on," says Rolec managing director Kieron Alsop. "The fact that this is a multi-layered Smart Cloud platform means that we can continue to develop apps and features, and remotely add them to the system as and when trends and marina management directions dictate. In effect, it's a completely liquid platform that has the potential to give the marina every resource it needs and give customers connectivity 24/7."

Fully electric marina

Dutch company Seijsener has been instrumental in the development of what may be the first fully electric marina. Located near the Amsterdam city centre, the emission-free 'E-Harbour' caters for 64 E-boats of varying sizes, all of which will be able to recharge their batteries every night.

To create the necessary harbour power Seijsener developed an electrical system with an impressive 1,000kVA transformer. Each power socket has its own electronic controller linked to a central system. Meter results, charging status and other data can be read by the boat owner, service company staff member or other authorised person, and situations such as cause of power failure can be quickly determined and remedied. The system combines smart technology with measurement, power control, service and cost control in one package.

Saint Cast Port,
The extensive rhythm of the fishermen and the tides...

➤ More than 8000 references on 5 continents

"A fishing pontoon developed specially for the professionals"

The fishing port of Saint-Cast is home to about twenty traditional fishing vessels. Their main catch is scallops, but it includes various other species, such as whelks, clams and assorted types of fish. The pontoons are matched to the tidal coefficients and are subject to heavy stress in everyday use. They are very easy to clean and for all practical purposes are now part of our working equipment! Major works have been carried out in the harbour in order to install a fishing pontoon as part of the port's redevelopment. Poralu Marine has worked side by side with us from the very beginning of the design phase, at the same time taking account of the strength and solidity constraints for the materials associated with their daily use.

Gen 2 free float

HydroHoist launched HarborHoist Gen 2, a free floating boat lift that is compatible with fixed or floating docks. It works in slips of varying size and shape to suit nearly all boat styles and has an aluminium level lifting frame and rugged marine polyethylene tanks.

The unit can be tied to the dock or secured using a conventional mooring system and is controlled by a push button. Walkways are mounted on the top of the tanks that run the full length of the lift for easy access to a boat in both the up or down position. Additional features include adjustable hull pads, optional centring guides and simple assembly and installation.

Marex launches new custom-built pedestals

Croatian company Marex Elektrostroj added two new power pedestals, called Zulu and Sierra, to its existing range.

The result of collaboration between professional engineers and designers, the Zulu pedestal has increased sheet thickness and improved construction. The company describes it as the most robust pedestal on the Croatian market, representing a blend of the company's tradition and modernity.

Measuring 100cm x 40cm x 25cm (39in x 26in x 10in) and built of stainless steel with a custom-colour plastic coating, Zulu features a front panel customisable illuminated logo and has up to four power connections.

The slightly larger Sierra (right) model is designed as a modern, durable pedestal offering a wide range of power supply options, making it ideal for megayachts with a power limit of up to 250A. It offers the same range of customisable features.

Both models offer remote control and an electric and water monitoring system, if required, and are constructed using parts made by Eaton.

EZ paddling

EZ Dock turned its attention to paddle sports with the release of the EZ Kayak Launch. The port features innovative built-in hand holes to help the user pull onto the port or push into the water via entries/exits on each side. One-piece construction, integrated paddle notches and v-shaped entry make launching and docking safe, easy and dry – even as water levels change.

Electric truck options

Hoist Liftruck rolled out its first AC power-driven Lazer series forklift aimed at significantly reducing maintenance costs for customers.

The FR series also came with an electric option last year. With the AC Lazer, the company became one of the first manufacturers worldwide to offer AC power in high-capacity electric lift trucks, culminating in the Lazer E400 with a 40,000lb (18,144kg) load rating.

Nano makes debut

Italian company MGA launched Nano, a new model in its Leonardo power pedestal range. Nano can be upgraded with a touch screen monitor and an air conditioning system and has a removable electricity receptacle. Customisable to suit any marina colour, it has a mirror finish stainless steel shell covered with WPC slats.

Pile Ring becomes Marinaquip

Pile Ring, the one-piece polyethylene buoy that slips over a piling to create a monitor-free mooring solution, has been joined by three sister products – marina and pile fenders and a docking wheel. To better reflect the product line, the Auckland-based company Pile Ring was renamed Marinaquip.

Teak look for Mini Mesh

Dura Composites introduced a teak coloured version of its Mini Mesh Dura Grating to complement its range of Teak Ultra Deck composite timber decking and fenders.

CCTV link-up

Management software specialist Marina Master partnered with Australian company DASH last year to deliver a CCTV solution for the marina industry.

The cooperation enables Marina Master to live stream camera footage through the myMarina app so that marina clients can view their vessels at any time and also get a general overview of the current situation at the marina. Staff can also access the footage and confirm availability and occupancy of berths in real time.

DASH offers a huge range of cameras with ultra low light, thermal, PTZ, people counting, licence plate recognition and heat mapping features. Marine grade stainless steel housings are also available.

Low cost washwater collection

The patented CarenEcolo filtration unit, an affordable system for collecting and filtering contaminated washwater after hull scrubbing, is aimed at small ports or marinas that have tighter budgets.

CarenEcolo comprises a mobile filtration unit, high pressure cleaner, 30m (98ft) long hose for removing waste water and a rollable PVC tarpaulin with inflatable sides. Operation is simple. The boat is positioned onto the tarpaulin for cleaning; the hull is hosed down; and the wastewater is contained on the mat and pumped into the filtration unit. Fluids go through seven different types of filters to remove any oil, paint residue, lead, copper, TBT, biocides and other poisonous materials.

The system can be used to filter other types of contaminated water, can be customised to meet specific needs and can be shipped worldwide.

All equipment including an electric winder for the mat fits inside one mobile, towable unit.

Special lift up

Martini Marinas introduced a series of special lifts to help people with disabilities access boats. Designed in association with a company that has specialised for many years in offering disabled people mobility solutions, the project is easily mounted on new floating pontoons. A proper interface to accommodate the lift on existing Martini docks is also available.

Gael Force launches concrete breakwater

Inverness-based Gael Force Marinas and Pontoons unveiled a concrete breakwater called SeaHaven. The product owes its development to over 20 years of experience in marina design and proficiency in complex concrete fabrication.

Two SeaHaven breakwaters, both measuring 20 x 4m (66 x 13ft) and weighing in at 62 tonnes apiece, were manufactured for an installation in Tarbert, Scotland, which also included 100m (328ft) of Gael Force's SeaHaven HD pontoons. The Tarbert wave attenuators have been designed to endure all sea conditions associated with the installation site and offer a generous design life of 30 years. A heavy duty chain moored system maintains the breakwater's position, minimising excursion, maximising attenuation and ensuring stability on site.
